Jonathan has 10 years of roadway design experience for state and local government agencies. He has been with Burns & McDonnell for nearly 3 years, and he previously spent 7 years with Kimley-Horn in Dallas, TX. His primary responsibilities include project management, geometric design, interchange design, sight distance analysis, traffic management, signing, pavement marking, stormwater pollution prevention plans, stormwater management, pedestrian facilities, and preliminary bridge layouts.

Jonathan grew up in Glenwood, Iowa, and went to college at the University of Nebraska at Omaha. He met his wife, Christi, in Las Vegas during spring break in college. They have been married for 9 years, and have two sons, Decklan (3) and Tyson (1). Jonathan enjoys traveling, brewing beer, and making wine when he has free time.

His favorite quote is, "A business that makes nothing but money is a poor business." - Henry Ford

His job would be easier if budgets and schedules did not exist in business.
