

Dan Oblinger is a refreshingly unique voice in corporate retreats and keynotes. He is a father, husband, philosopher, and lawman. He has been successful in his professional life as a hostage negotiator, undercover human trafficking investigator, human resources consultant, chicken rancher, drug recognition expert, ditch digger, grocery bagger, onion ring maker, and beat cop. Oblinger has used his unique experiences and high energy humor to educate audiences since 2008. Oblinger has carved out a niche as a leading expert in providing speaking, training, and executive consulting for all industries across the country. Dan's passion is sharing listening, negotiating, and leadership skills so everyone can become more authentic leaders and lovers.