Bio: I was born and raised in Johnson County, KS and have lived or am currently living in many of the county's suburbs (Lenexa, Olathe, Overland Park, and Leawood). I am the youngest of three children (one brother and one sister). I attended the University of Kansas where I met my wife, Nicole Herbert, and earned my BS in Civil Engineering in 2011. Nicole and I have been married for just under five years and have one beautiful daughter named Lucy who just turned one this past June and a lovable but ornery man's best friend named Royce.

After graduating from KU, I began my professional career at HNTB in Overland Park, KS as a Transportation Engineer focusing on highways. HNTB continues to be my professional home where I have served numerous clients over my relatively short career including KDOT, KTA, and several local municipalities. I earned my PE in Kansas in 2016 and an MBA from Rockhurst University in 2015.

Fun fact about me: I broke my hip at the ripe age of 24...Needless to say my friends and coworkers, while sympathetic, quickly pointed out that my youthful exuberance was coming to an end.

My job would be a lot easier if... everything went according to the initial plan.
