I took a very circuitous route to find myself in the civil engineering field. I began my first career in the landscape industry. After a few years, I found myself wanting a change and an opportunity presented itself in the form of a civil engineering degree. After graduating from Kansas State University in 2009, I went to work for SMH Consultants in Manhattan, Kansas and have been with them ever since. I primarily began as a design engineer working on site development projects. Now, I am a project manager overlooking a variety of projects related to site development, land development, and transportation. Because we are a small firm, I have been afforded the opportunity to work on a wide range of projects throughout the state of Kansas during my career.

When I'm not working, I can usually be found at the lake or on a golf course. I enjoy all sorts of outdoor activities and watching/attending K-State sporting events. I'm always up for a new adventure or experience.
